Privacy Notice

Updated October 2026

1. About this notice

This Privacy Notice explains how Altumint, Inc. ("we," "us," or "our") collects, uses, shares, and protects personal data, and the choices and rights you have.

We are responsible for deciding how and why your personal data is used.

In this notice, "personal data" also means "personal information," "personally identifiable information," and any similar term used in the privacy laws that apply to you.

We provide traffic safety programs to government customers, such as cities, counties, and states. We also process citation payments on their behalf from people who receive citations.

This notice applies to the following websites:

- www.altumint.com
- www.onlinecitationpayment.com, including the payment websites we operate for individual jurisdictions

This notice applies when you:

- Visit our websites
- Pay a citation, or contact us about a citation
- Work with us on behalf of a government customer
- Use our products and services
- Contact us, attend our events, or otherwise interact with us, online or in person

This notice does not apply to:

- Websites, apps, or services operated by others, even if we link to them. Their own privacy notices apply.
- Personal data we process on behalf of our government customers, except as described in this notice. Our contracts with those customers govern that data.

2. Personal data and sensitive data

Personal data is any information that identifies you, or that could reasonably be linked to you, either on its own or when combined with other information. Examples include your name, email address, phone number, IP address, device identifiers, and records of how you use our website.

Information that has been de-identified, anonymized, or combined with other people's information so that it can no longer reasonably be linked to you is not personal data.

Sensitive data is a type of personal data that privacy laws protect more strictly, because its misuse could cause you greater harm. Some laws call it "sensitive personal information" or "special category data."

3. What we collect

We collect personal data in three ways: when you give it to us, automatically when you use our website or services, and from other sources. If you choose not to provide certain data, we may not be able to provide some of our services.

Data you give us

- When you pay a citation: your name, email address, and payment details, such as your card information or, if you pay by check, your bank routing and account numbers
- When you use the chat feature on our payment website: the content of your messages
- When you contact us: your name, email address, phone number, and the content of your message
- When you request or use our products or services: the details needed to provide them

Data we collect automatically

When you visit our website or use our services, we and our service providers automatically collect the data below. Much of it is collected through cookies and similar technologies.

- Device and browser information, such as your IP address, browser type, operating system, device identifiers, and language settings
- Usage information, such as the pages you visit, the links you click, the date and time of your visit, and the website that referred you
- General location, such as your country, region, or city, based on your IP address
- Error and diagnostic information

Our website forms use Google reCAPTCHA to protect against spam and abuse. reCAPTCHA collects device and usage information, which Google processes under its own privacy policy and terms.

Data we receive from others

When a traffic safety camera we operate for a government customer detects a potential traffic violation, it captures images and video of the vehicle, its license plate number, and the location, date, and time. The government customer reviews this information and decides whether to issue a citation. We also obtain registered owner information from authorized government sources so that a citation notice can be sent. The notice is mailed to the registered owner, and the citation is made available on our payment website, where the person who received it can view and pay it.

We receive personal data from:

- Traffic safety cameras we operate for our government customers
- Our government customers

- State motor vehicle agencies and other authorized government sources, which provide vehicle registration and registered owner information, including driver's license numbers
- Courts and collection providers
- Service providers that help us run our business
- Business partners, such as organizers of events where we exhibit

4. Categories of personal data

The table below shows the categories of personal data we collect.

Category	Examples	Collected
A. Identifiers	Name, alias, postal address, email address, phone number, account name, IP address, online identifiers	YES
B. Personal information as defined in the California Customer Records statute	Name, contact information, education, employment, employment history, financial information	YES
C. Protected classification characteristics under state or federal law	Age, date of birth, gender, race and ethnicity, national origin, marital status	NO
D. Commercial information	Purchase history, transaction records, payment information	YES
E. Biometric information	Fingerprints, voiceprints, face scans	NO
F. Internet or other electronic network activity	Browsing history, search history, interactions with our website, apps, and advertisements	YES
G. Geolocation data	Location of a vehicle at the time of a traffic event	YES
H. Audio, electronic, visual, or similar information	Photos, video recordings	YES
I. Professional or employment-related information	Job title, employer, work history, professional qualifications	NO
J. Education information	Student records, directory information	NO
K. Inferences drawn from personal data	Profiles reflecting a person's preferences, characteristics, or behavior	YES
L. Sensitive personal information	Precise geolocation, government identification numbers, financial account or card numbers combined with a security code	YES

5. Sensitive data

We collect sensitive data only when we need it for the purposes listed in the table below, or when the law or our contracts with government customers require it. We do not use sensitive data to infer characteristics about you, and we do not sell or share sensitive data.

The table below shows the types of sensitive data we collect, and why. We do not collect any other types of sensitive data.

Type of sensitive data	Why we collect it
Precise geolocation	To record where a potential traffic violation took place
Government identification numbers	To identify the registered owner of a vehicle involved in a potential traffic violation
Financial account or card numbers combined with a security code or password	To process citation payments. Card numbers and security codes go directly to our payment processor.

6. How we use your personal data

We use personal data for the purposes listed below. We may also use de-identified or aggregated data that no longer identifies you, for example to produce statistics about how our services are used. We will not attempt to re-identify that data, except as permitted by law.

- To provide our services. We use your data to deliver the products and services you request, and to run traffic safety programs for our government customers, including sending citation notices and processing citation payments.
- To communicate with you. We use your data to answer your questions, provide support, and send messages about our services or changes to our terms and policies.
- To keep our services secure. We use your data to detect and prevent fraud, abuse, security incidents, and other harmful activity.
- To meet legal obligations and protect rights. We use your data to comply with laws, respond to lawful requests, enforce our terms, and protect the rights and safety of our users, our company, and others.
- For business transactions. We may use your data when evaluating or carrying out a merger, acquisition, financing, or sale of all or part of our business.
- To understand and improve our services. We study how people use our website and services so we can fix problems and make improvements.
- For other purposes with your consent. If we want to use your data for a new purpose, we will tell you first and ask for your consent where the law requires it.

7. Who we share your personal data with

We share personal data only as described below.

Our government customers. We share traffic safety camera data with the government customer that runs each program, so it can review the data and decide whether to issue a citation.

Motor vehicle agencies. We share license plate numbers with state motor vehicle agencies and other authorized government sources to obtain registered owner information.

Service providers. Service providers are companies that perform services for us, such as hosting our website or processing payments. We use the following types of service providers:

- Website hosting
- Cloud computing and data storage
- Security and fraud prevention
- Data analytics
- Customer relationship management
- Customer support tools
- Payment processors
- Printing and mailing services
- Collection services
- Recruiting and applicant tracking tools

Legal and public authorities. We may disclose personal data when required by law, such as in response to a subpoena, court order, or other lawful request, or when needed to protect the rights, property, or safety of our users, our company, or others.

Professional advisers. We may share personal data with our lawyers, accountants, academic researchers, auditors, and insurers when needed to receive their advice or services.

Business transfers. If we are involved in a merger, acquisition, financing, or sale of all or part of our business, personal data may be transferred to the buyer or new owner, who must continue to protect it as described in this notice.

With your consent. We may share your data with others when you ask us to or agree that we can.

8. How long we keep your personal data

We keep personal data only as long as we need it for the purposes described in this notice, or as long as the law requires. How long we keep it depends on the type of data.

When we no longer need personal data, we delete it or anonymize it so that it no longer identifies you. If that is not immediately possible, for example because the data is stored in backups, we keep it secure and do not use it until it can be deleted.

To decide how long to keep personal data, we consider:

- Why we collected it, and whether we still need it for that purpose
- Whether you still have a relationship with us
- Legal, tax, and accounting requirements, and the requirements of our contracts with government customers
- Whether we need it to resolve disputes, enforce our agreements, or respond to legal claims
- How sensitive the data is, and the risk of harm if it were misused

9. How we protect your personal data

We use appropriate technical and organizational measures, including administrative, technical, and physical safeguards, designed to protect personal data from loss, misuse, and unauthorized access, disclosure, alteration, or destruction. If a data breach affects your personal data, we will notify you and the authorities as required by law.

10. Your choices and rights

You have choices about how we use your personal data, and depending on where you live, you may also have legal rights over it. We will not treat you differently for exercising your choices or rights.

Your choices

You can make the following choices at any time:

- Cookies. Block or delete cookies through your browser settings.
- Withdrawing consent. Where we rely on your consent, you can withdraw it. This does not affect anything we did before you withdrew it.

Your rights

These rights are not absolute. The law sometimes allows or requires us to decline a request, and if we do, we will explain why. The rights available to you depend on where you live. Depending on your location, you may have the right to:

- Access the personal data we hold about you
- Correct inaccurate personal data
- Delete your personal data
- Receive a copy of your personal data in a portable format
- Opt out of the sale or sharing of your personal data, or its use for targeted advertising
- Opt out of profiling or automated decisions that significantly affect you
- Limit or restrict how we use your personal data, including sensitive data
- Object to how we use your personal data
- Appeal our decision on your request
- Complain to a data protection authority or regulator

How to make a request

To make a request, contact us. We will need to verify your identity before we act, usually by matching the information you give us with information we already hold. We use the information you provide for verification only for that purpose.

You may ask an authorized agent to make a request for you. We will ask the agent for proof of your signed permission, and we may also ask you to verify your identity directly.

We will respond within the time the law requires, and we will tell you if we need more time. We do not charge a fee for requests, unless they are clearly unfounded or excessive.

11. Cookies and similar technologies

Cookies are small text files that a website stores on your device. We also use similar technologies, such as pixels, tags, scripts, and local storage, which work in much the same way. In this notice, "cookies" includes all of these technologies.

Some cookies are set by us, and others are set by third parties, such as analytics providers. Some are deleted when you close your browser, and others stay on your device until they expire or you delete them.

We use the following types of cookies:

Type	What it does	Your choice
Essential	Makes our website work, for example by keeping it secure	Always on, because the website cannot work without them
Analytics	Helps us understand how visitors use our website, such as which pages are most popular	You can block these through your browser settings

You can control cookies through your browser settings. If you block essential cookies, parts of our website may not work.

- Your browser settings. Most browsers let you block cookies or delete them. Check your browser's help pages for instructions.

12. Children

Our websites and services are not directed to anyone under 18, and we do not knowingly collect personal data from children under 13. We may receive personal data about a person under 18 only when that person is the driver or registered owner of a vehicle involved in a potential traffic violation. If you are under 13, please do not use our services or send us personal data.

If we learn that we have collected personal data from a child under 13, we will delete it promptly. If you are a parent or guardian and believe your child has given us personal data, please contact us so we can delete it.

13. Website analytics

We use analytics tools, which rely on cookies and similar technologies, to understand how visitors use our website so that we can improve it. Our analytics providers process this information on our behalf. You can block analytics cookies through your browser settings, and some analytics providers offer their own opt-out tools.

Our marketing analytics practices include:

- Measuring the pages you visit, how long you stay, and the links you click
- Identifying the website that referred you to us

- Identifying your general location, device type, and browser type

14. Browser privacy signals

Some web browsers and browser extensions let you send a signal to websites telling them that you do not want your personal data sold, shared, or used for targeted advertising. Examples include Global Privacy Control and an older signal called "Do Not Track." Our website does not currently respond to these signals. You can still limit tracking through your browser and device settings.

15. Sale and sharing of personal data

We do not sell your personal data, and we do not share it for cross-context behavioral advertising, which means advertising based on your data.

16. Marketing emails

We use your name and email address to send you marketing emails about our products and services. We send these emails to people we meet at events, as permitted by each event's terms, and to people who contact us. You can unsubscribe at any time using the opt-out option in any marketing email, or by contacting us. After you unsubscribe, we keep your email address on a do-not-contact list so that we continue to honor your choice.

Our marketing email practices include:

- Tracking whether our emails are opened and which links are clicked, so that we can improve them

17. Payments

When you pay a citation, we collect your name, email address, and payment details to process your payment, send receipts, and handle refunds. When you pay by card, your card information goes directly to our payment processor, Authorize.net, which handles it under its own privacy notice.

Payment processor privacy notice:

https://www.authorize.net/about-us/privacy.html

Our payment practices include:

- Keeping a record of your payments
- Keeping payment records for as long as the law and our contracts with government customers require
- Accepting payments by check

18. Automated decisions

We do not make decisions about you based solely on automated processing that have legal or similarly significant effects on you.

19. Other ways you interact with us

This section explains how we handle personal data when you interact with us in the ways described below.

Events

If you meet us at an event where we exhibit or participate, such as a trade show or conference, we collect your name, contact details, job title, and organization, either from you or from the event organizer. Our event practices include:

- Following up with you after the event, as permitted by the event's terms

Job applicants

If you apply for a job with us, we collect the information you provide, such as your name, contact details, resume, work history, education, and references, and information from interviews. We use it to evaluate your application and communicate with you about it. Our job applicant practices include:

- Using an applicant tracking system that processes applications on our behalf

20. US state privacy rights

If you live in a US state with a comprehensive consumer privacy law, you have rights over your personal data under that law. We respond to requests within 45 days. If we need more time, we will tell you within those 45 days, and we may take up to 45 more days where the law allows.

If we decline your request, you can appeal our decision by contacting us. We will respond to your appeal in writing within the time your state's law requires, and explain the reasons for our decision. If we deny your appeal, you can contact your state attorney general.

Depending on the state where you live, you may also have the right to:

- Obtain a list of the categories of third parties we have disclosed your personal data to

21. Changes to this notice

We review and update this notice at least once a year, and sooner if our practices or the law change significantly. When we update it, we change the "Updated" date.

22. Contact us

If you have questions about this notice, or want to make a request about your personal data, contact us:

- Email: info@altumint.com
